SPEAKERS

Brad B. Nelson, DVM, PhD, DACVS-LA
Colorado State University - Fort Collins, CO

Dr. Brad Nelson, DVM, PhD, DACVS is currently an assistant professor of Equine surgery at Colorado State University. Dr. Nelson graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Madison with a D.V.M. in 2009, and then completed an equine internship in surgery and medicine at Washington State University, followed by a residency in equine surgery and lameness at CSU. He also received a master's degree in clinical sciences as part of the residency program. Following residency, Dr. Nelson completed a PhD focused on articular cartilage imaging using a novel contrast agent with computed tomographic imaging in an equine model. Dr. Nelson's research interests are in the detection of articular cartilage injury and osteoarthritis using advanced diagnostic imaging modalities and preclinical surgical models of orthopedic disease. He became an assistant professor of Equine Surgery in 2019 and is a principal investigator in the Orthopaedic Research Center and Preclinical Surgical Research Laboratory.

Sarah Shropshire, DVM, PhD, DACVIM (SAIM)

Dr. Shropshire is an Internal Medicine faculty member at Colorado State University's Veterinary Teaching Hospital in Fort Collins, Colorado. Dr. Shropshire completed her DVM degree at Colorado State University. Dr. Shropshire then completed an internship at the University of Georgia, followed by a small animal internal medicine residency and PhD at Colorado State University. Dr. Shropshire is mostly involved in clinical duty for the hospital and clinical trials. Dr. Shropshire's research interests include liver disease, immune thrombocytopenia, coagulation, and proteinuria.
